TERM 3 – 27th MARCH 2020

Dear All,

Well, what a week. A slightly different feel to our newsletter this time as we cannot add all our usual activities and notices, but it is important that you hear from us.

This time last week the school was locking its doors until...well who knows when and we have all started a 'new normal'. It is anything but normal, and things are changing on a (sometimes) daily basis but one thing is that we are all having to deal with this and deal with it we are.

I have been incredibly impressed with how everyone has coped this week; children, families, teachers, support staff – everyone and for that I am so very proud and exceptionally grateful.

The class web pages are being uploaded with lots of things to do. SpellingShed and TTRockstars didn't know what to do with the traffic on them earlier in the week that they crashed – all better now though.

Who have thought we would all be aching so much from jumping around the lounge or garden following the moves of Joe Wicks!

All I ask is that you please keep in touch with us, send us pictures of your learning, different things you are doing (lots of cooking going on I know, which is great), games you are playing or inventing – we would love to see them. Send an email to info@ppsa.theplt.org.uk

We do miss seeing you every day.

Thank you for your continued support, now more than ever.

READING & WRITING

Use this time to read, read and then read some more! Read out loud, read in your head, read to someone, read to something! It doesn't matter what your child is reading, a magazine, a dictionary, instructions, a recipe – anything – reading is reading. One suggestion that I heard this week is to turn the sound down on the TV and put up subtitles!

Let someone read to you, Audible (through Amazon) have put 100s of free books on their website for us all to listen to whilst we are in this situation.

An idea for all to do is to keep a diary of these strange times. We will look back one day and reflect on everything that has been going on – lets create some primary history resources now! I would also love to get emails from your children – I will reply I promise!

MATHS

Maths is everywhere, it really is. Cooking gardening, DIY is all about numbers and weighing, measuring – it's is all good practice and all brings maths to life.

Also White Rose Maths are doing daily lessons which follow what we teach in the classroom, Carol Vordeman is also hosting a daily maths session – give it a go!
